This story takes place
on the Moon where people are enjoying a happy
life after many twists
and turns.

What is this, Oupa?

Tell me more!

Oh, this is an old picture from my time on Earth.

I'll tell you a story from
a long time ago.

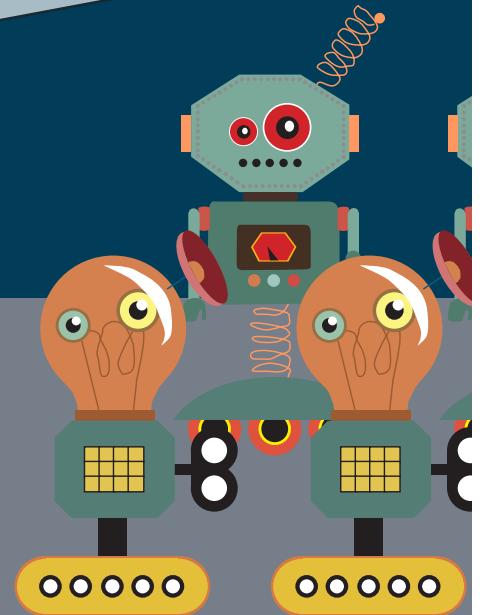

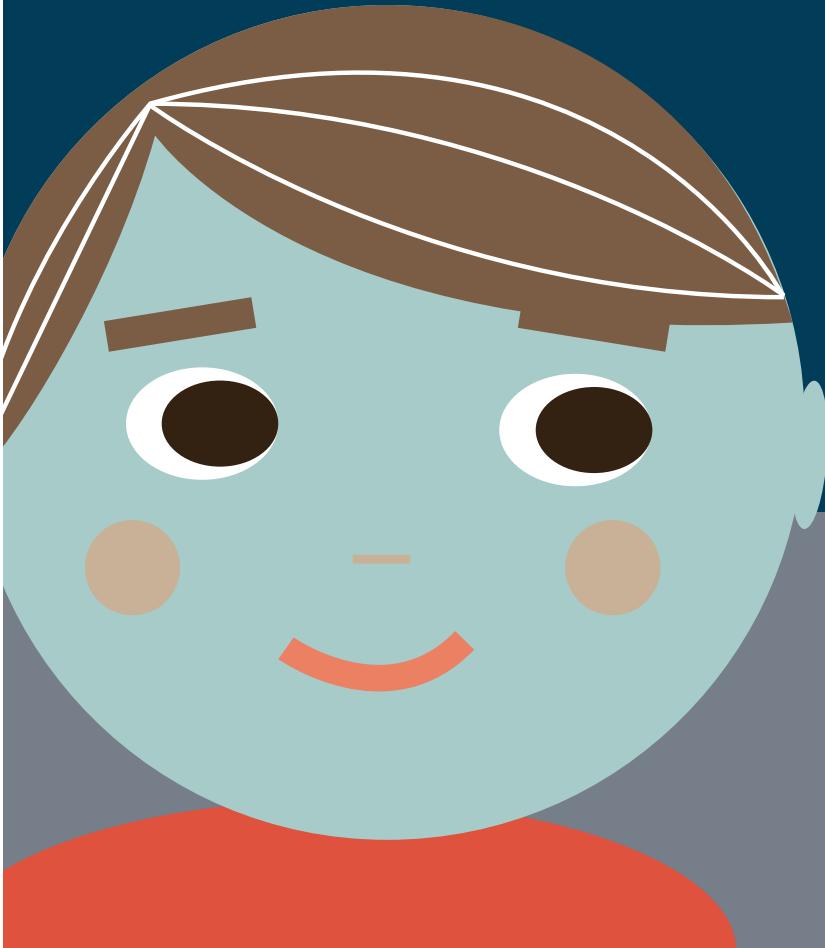

Once upon a time...

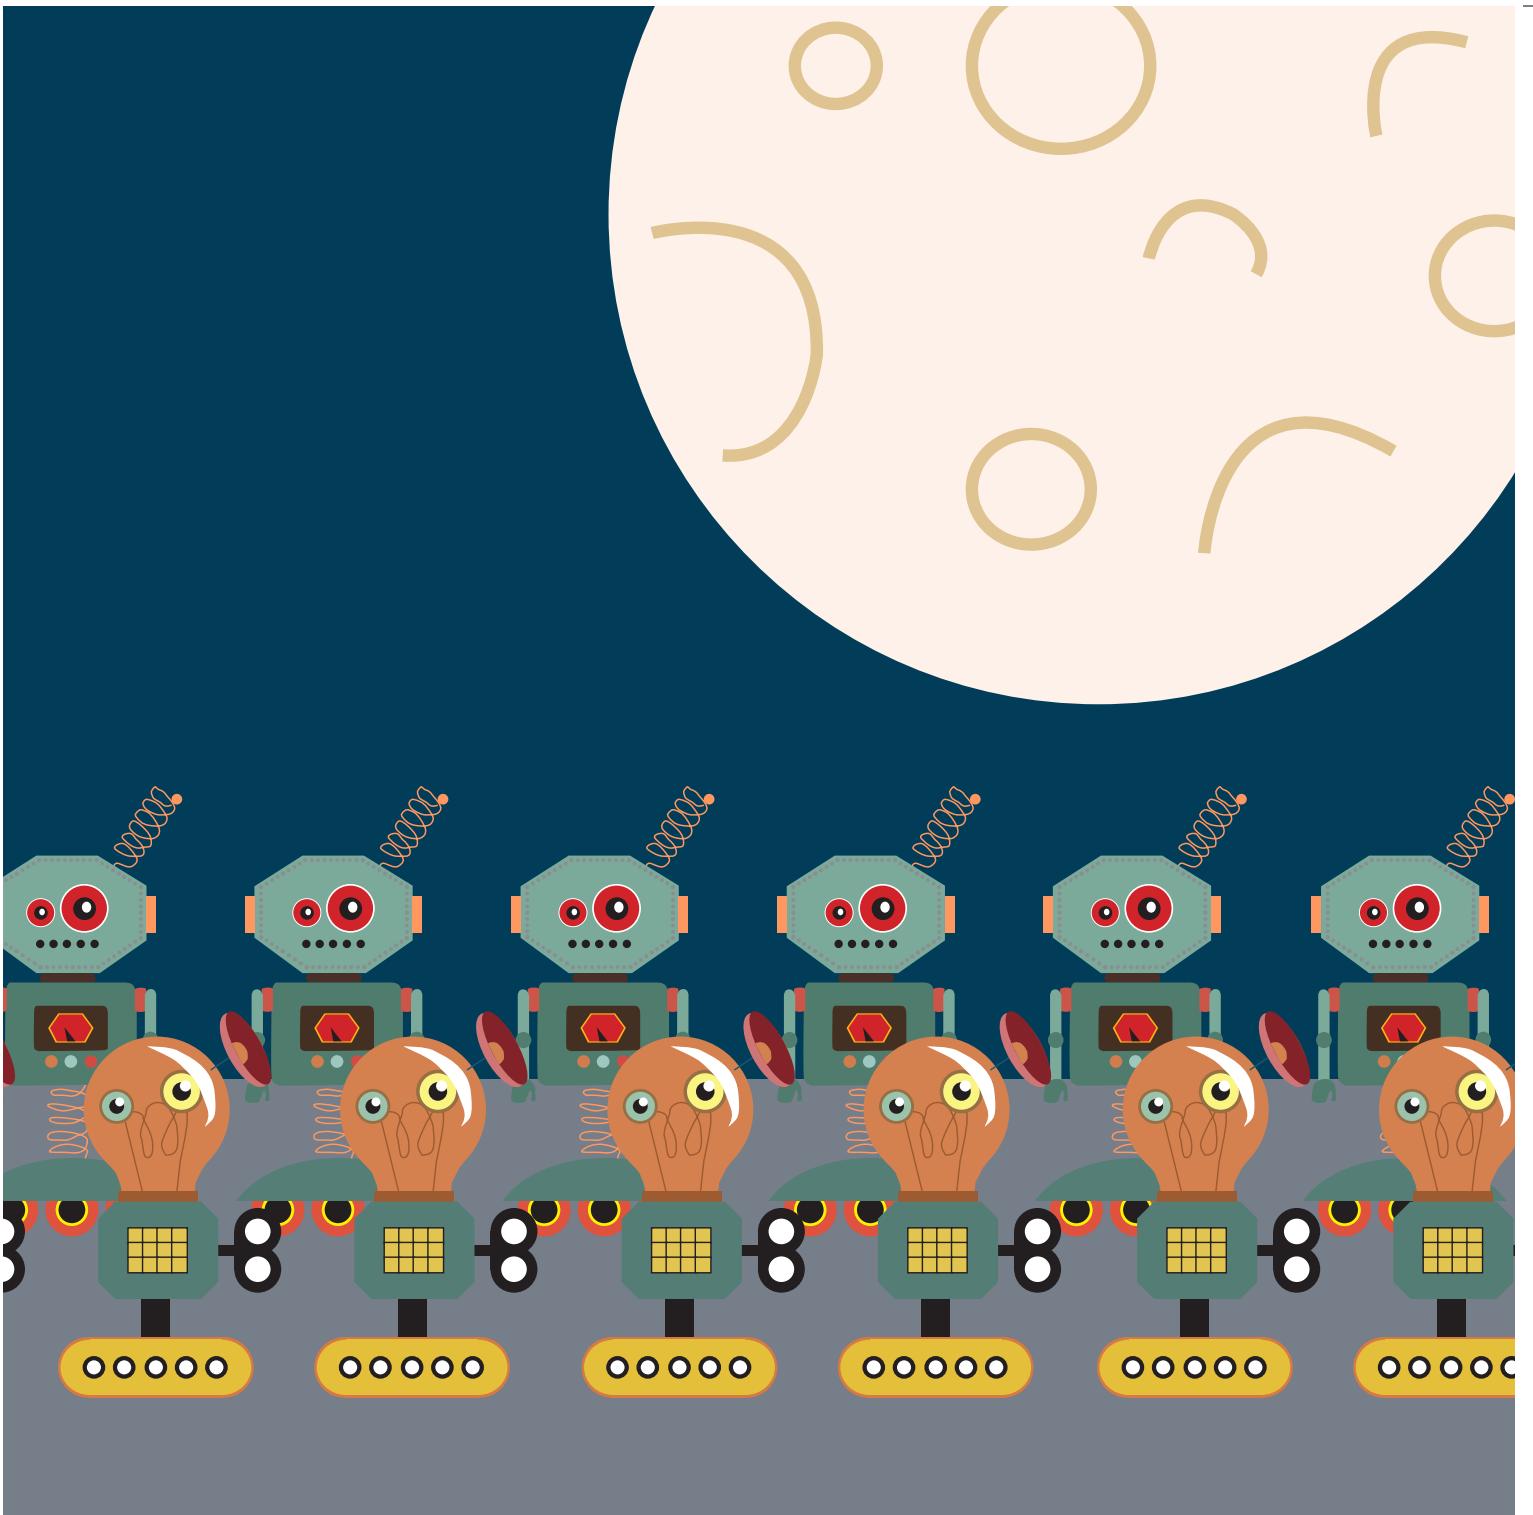

Back then, I was living on Earth with Ouma. I was an engineer, trying to find his way into space. How could we settle human beings on the Moon?

2020

The image displays the year '2020' in a large, bold, sans-serif font. The digits are filled with a dark blue color and feature a repeating pattern of small, stylized icons. These icons are white and orange, resembling a combination of a robot head and a gear. The pattern is arranged in a grid-like fashion across the entire surface of the numbers. The background is plain white.

The answer came in the form of small and helpful robots I designed.
We needed all the hands we could get!

Unfortunately, the robots were vulnerable and ill-intentioned people decided to use them to do harm.

2070

A group of mean pirates reprogrammed them to fill people's hearts with terror, which led to a catastrophic series of events.

The war with the pirates prompted us to leave the war-torn and barren Earth in hope of a better future on the Moon. Fortunately, there were still a few robots we could use for our settlement, but in the beginning it was very tough for everyone.

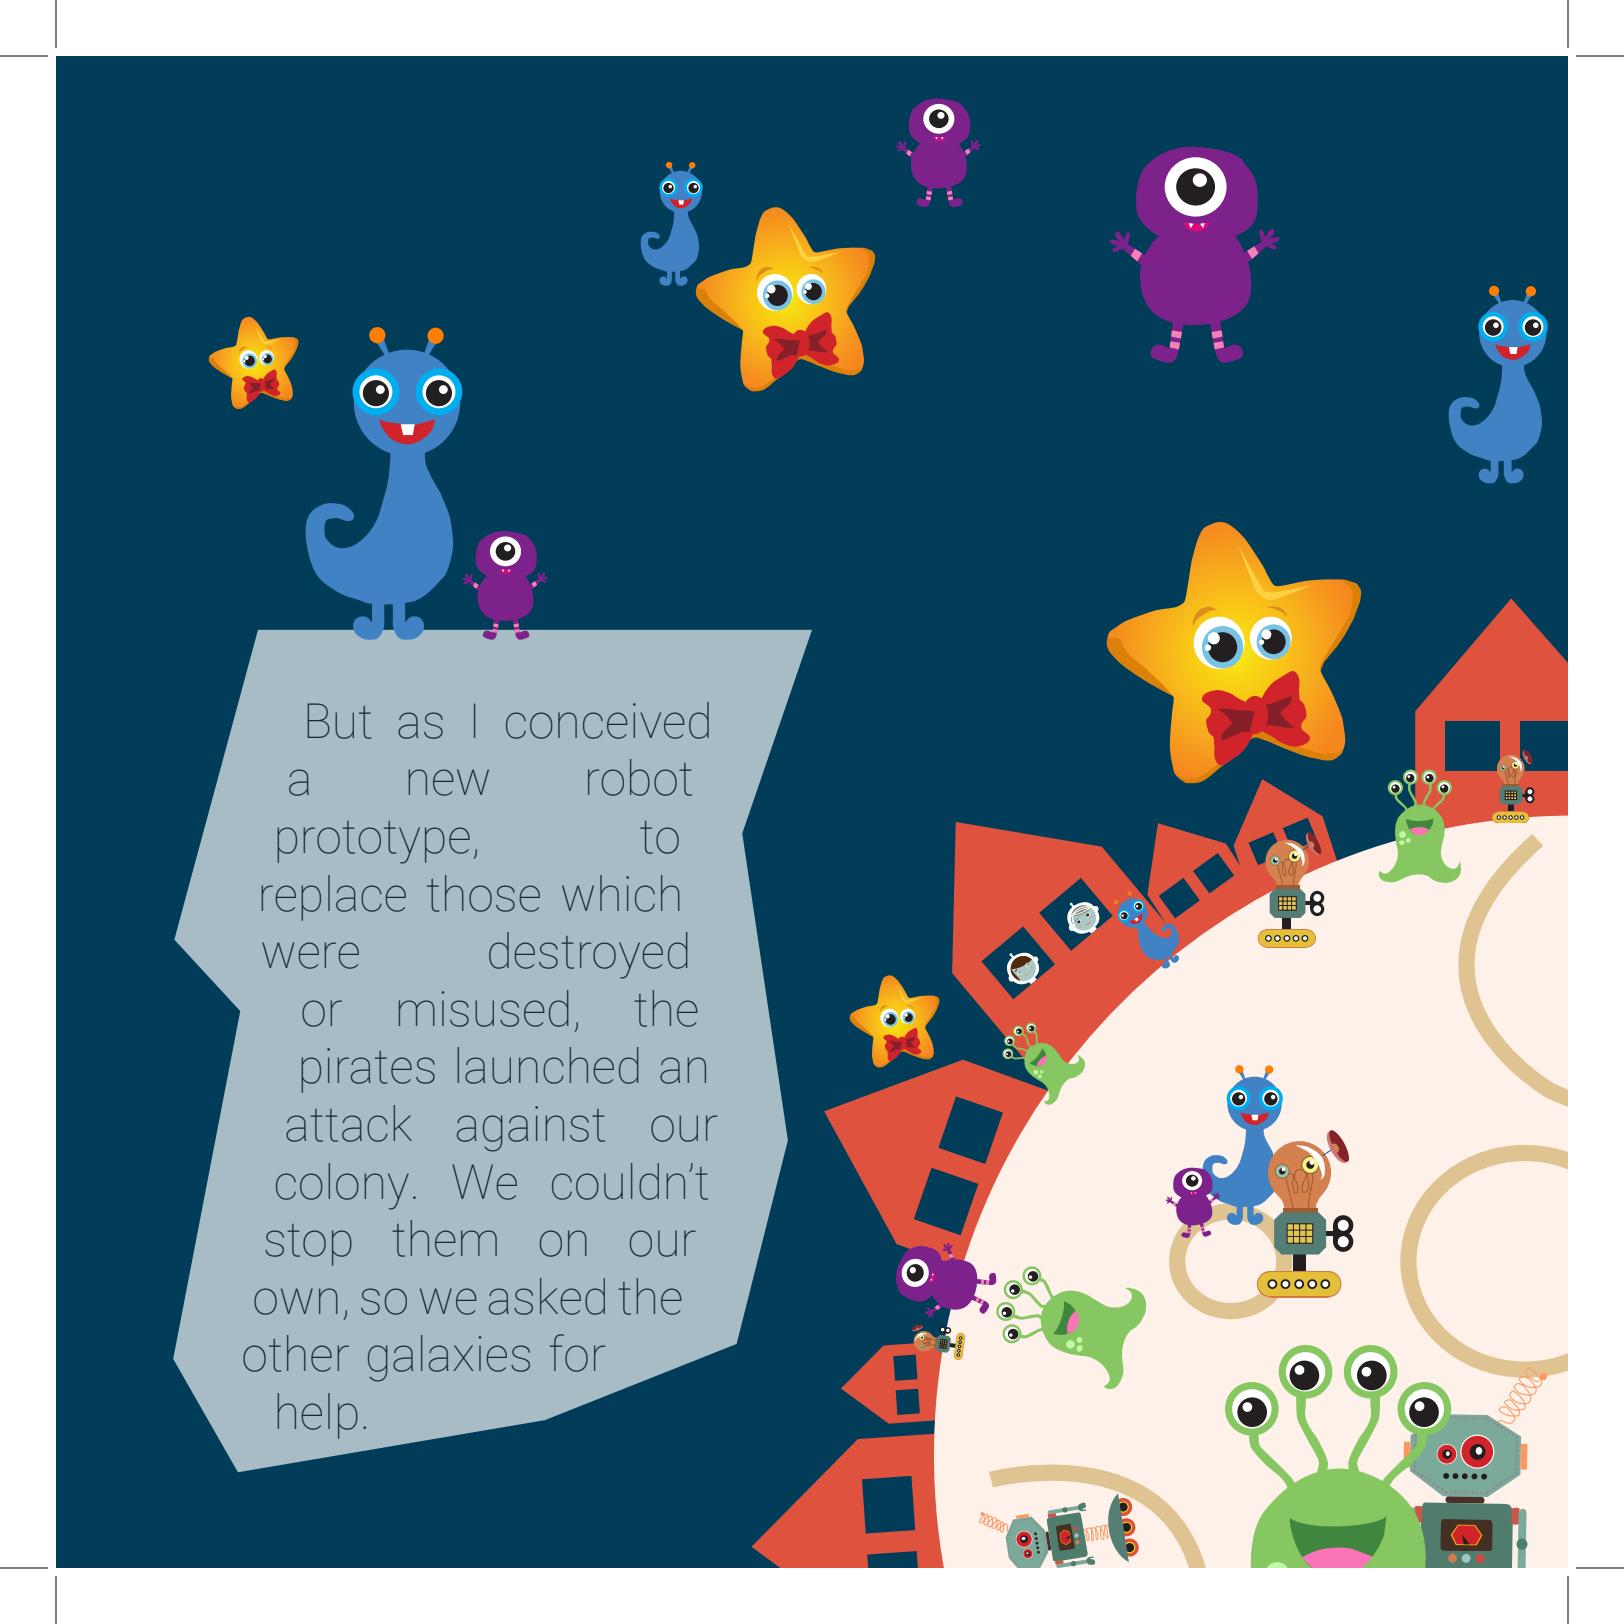

2085

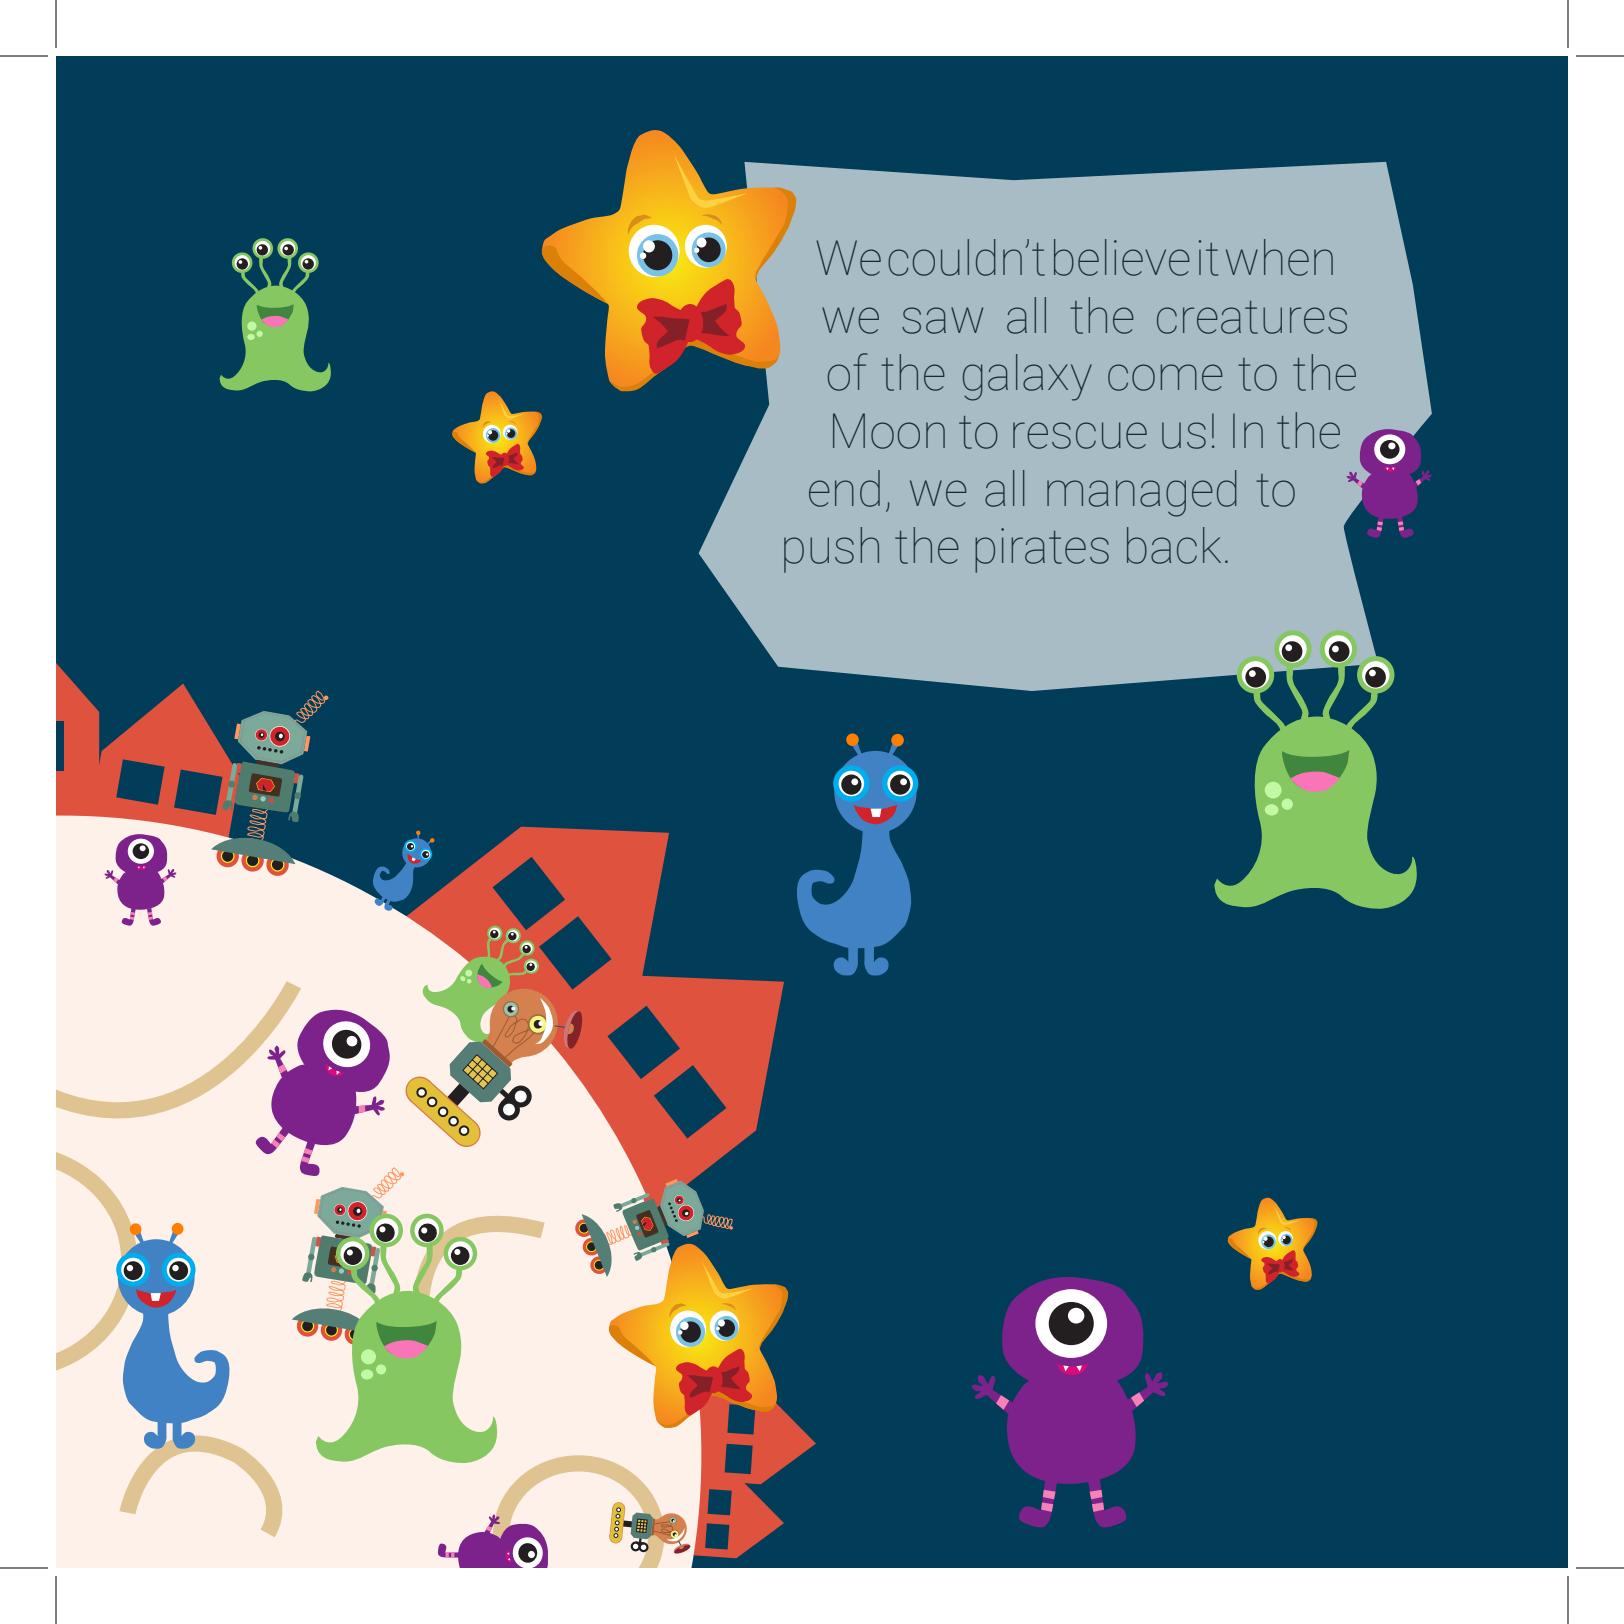

We did our best to build a new home on the Moon. We sent robot explorers across its surface and we built villages. The Moon gave us new technologies and resources: teleportation, magic rainbow milk which makes you giggle instantly! The Moon happened to be the perfect place to breed Moongooses, lunar cousins of the African mongoose. Their fur is the shiniest and the furriest on the Moon and you can pet them all day long.

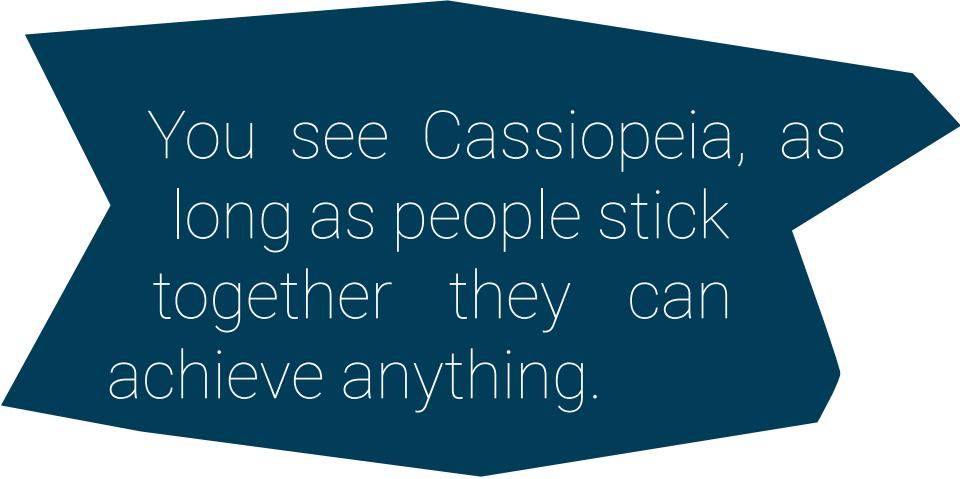

2100

But as I conceived a new robot prototype, to replace those which were destroyed or misused, the pirates launched an attack against our colony. We couldn't stop them on our own, so we asked the other galaxies for help.

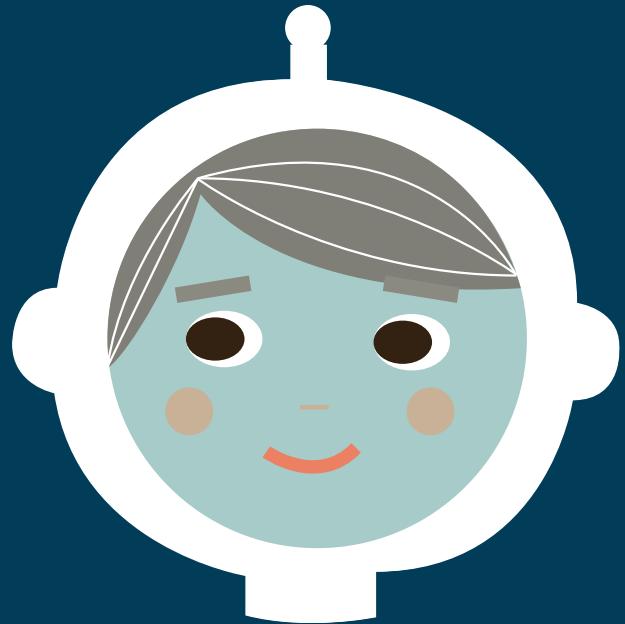

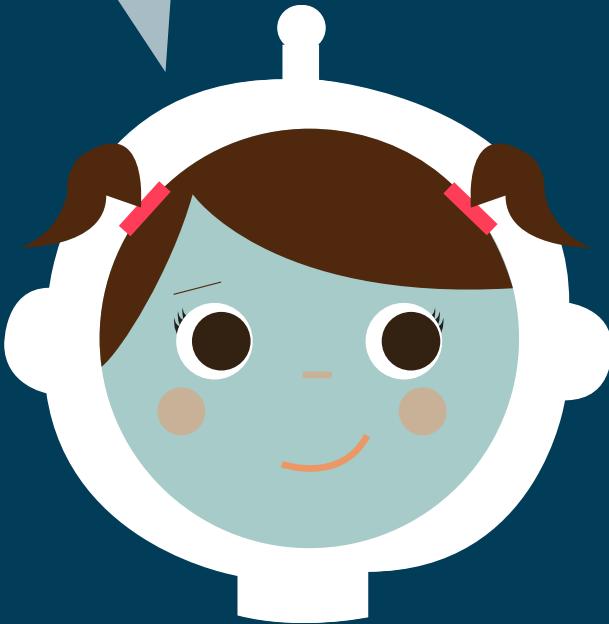

We couldn't believe it when we saw all the creatures of the galaxy come to the Moon to rescue us! In the end, we all managed to push the pirates back.

You see Cassiopeia, as long as people stick together they can achieve anything.

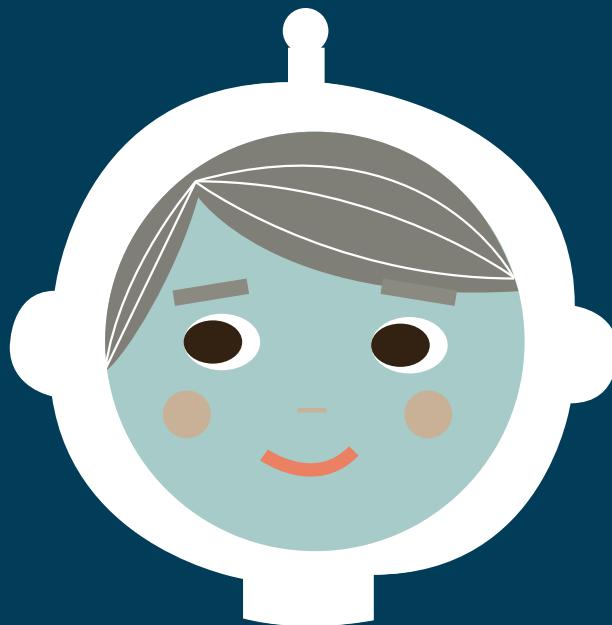

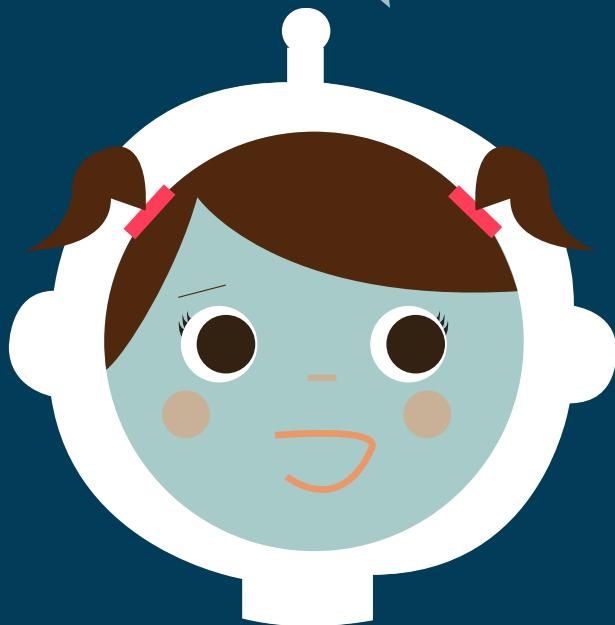

2150

When I grow up, I want to live adventures too.

You will. Anything you want to do in your life, you can achieve it.

I want to make friends with the universe! I want to travel all around space, and build new things with my friends.

Where do you want to start?
